DOI 10.5281/zenodo.8402510

Norboyeva Madina Diyor kizi
Chirchik City of Chirchik, Tashkent region Chirchik Higher tank Command engineering knowledge country Uzbek language teacher

FEATURES OF DIPLOMATIC CORRESPONDENCE

Indeed, the letter reflects the personality of the applicant. Judge appeal and its to give an opinion about the applicant, who, having perceived his thoughts, made his arguments starts. If the result depends on intellectual trust, it will be very responsible. It is very expensive to take a useful sample from a lawyer. The reason is labor, without this skill can not. A Memorandum is a type of written diplomatic document that is external foreign bodies of relations, governments of different countries, as well as a state it is an official document that is used in correspondence between the constituent bodies. Memorandum, from other documents of this type (memorabilia, notes, etc. in contrast, the most complete information on a particular issue discussed in it is, including the analysis of the relevant factual information, of the applicant state reasonable position and reasonable conclusion. In addition, the memorandum is on the other hand may include reverse polemic with evidence.

Diplomatic correspondence - various official correspondence and documents of diplomatic nature set. Means of maintaining relations between states, state foreign policy and one of the main forms of diplomatic activity. Correspondence between states treatment State, head of government, Foreign Office, various state and public organizations and institutions or their heads, diplomatic representatives and some diplomats are kept on the road. Letters, telegrams, letters, note correspondence through, as well as declaration, statement, Call, Information agents messages are types of diplomatic correspondence. International in diplomatic correspondence life and foreign policy, Interstate bilateral or multilateral relations issues will be covered. Preparation of these documents state and related institutions it is considered an alternative area of diplomatic activity. Diplomatic correspondence couriers deliver to the specified address.

A diplomatic act is the act of one state by the Foreign Relations bodies of another written text that is submitted or sent to the Foreign Relations bodies of the state. The most common diplomatic acts are notes, memoranda and communiques. diplomatic letter.

Note-official appeal of one state to another state government; content a document that needs to be considered seriously and quickly. A note is a declaration of right or claim a diplomatic act that can be done, to the wrong actions of another government rotest against. Notes, like other official diplomatic documents, are directly does not include consent or protest, but may have an informational nature. But even in this case, they have a certain legal significance: in a certain formula the fact shown in the Note represents the official point of view of this government. The Note content should be short, without unnecessary phrases, carefully edited.

Communique (fr. communicate from Lat. contact" I will report") - official message higher bodies are government bodies, Foreign Relations bodies, various states or international representatives of organizations events of an international nature: interstate relations the situation in the desired area, the course or results of negotiations, the ongoing military actions, etc. In addition to purely informative tasks, kommunike often carries a more important semantic load: if it is the political and legal of the publisher if it emphasizes its position on problems, evaluates them, then the interested parties if he announces his obligations and goals, their intentions, warnings. Some documented cases of inter-state communications in which

https://wordlyknowledge.uz

communications were conducted may include materials containing the results. Diplomatic letter. Diplomatic practice sometimes uses diplomatic letters, which are mostly personal is one of the forms of note. Official letters and notes, as a rule, from the sender it is formed in the language or in one of the diplomatic languages. Letters are on official blanks (ambassador or Minister of Foreign Affairs) is written. The date and signature in the diplomatic letter are mandatory. Half the purpose of a personal letter of an official nature is to make personal contacts for various purposes installation: establishing business contacts, obtaining political information, etc. For example, in England, such letters after being invited to a personal reception make communication confirms the intention to continue, and the absence of a letter makes it possible to preserve the relationship indicates unwillingness. But there are people with whom you have a letter of reply you can send.

Understanding the difference between a contract and a memorandum, even experienced diplomats for both, it is simple that it is difficult to understand the intricacies of international law it is also a very difficult issue for citizens without legal knowledge. However, the view of recent events from the point of view. The controversial situation around the Budapest Memorandum and its terms demolition. this issue is very large in the national and Western media caused controversy.

REFERENCES:

1. oyina.uz website.

2. Shuhrat HOTAMOV, National Guard military technician of the Republic of Uzbekistan associate professor of the institute “new Uzbekistan” newspaper October 23, 2020, No. 182.

3. Artistic publicist literature " language and EL “ “ politics of language and literature”.

WORDLY KNOWLEDGE

https://wordlyknowledge.uz